Next, you drive to Meknes, one of Morocco's imperial cities, where you visit Bab Mansour, the Sahrij Souani basin, the royal granaries, and the Mausoleum of Moulay Ismail. Afterward, you continue to Fes. If time allows, you can stop for photographs at the Royal Palace gates before dropping you off at your riad for the night.

After breakfast, you drive south through Imouzzer to visit Ifrane, known for its cool climate and alpine-style houses. Next, you continue to the Cedar Forest, where Barbary macaques may be seen. Later, you stop near Midelt for lunch before travelling through the Tizi n'Talghamt pass and along the Ziz Valley, with stops for panoramic views. You reach Merzouga in the afternoon. A 4x4 takes you toward the camp or to the camel departure area if you choose the sunset camel ride. A 4x4 transfer is also available instead of the camel ride. Wake up early if you'd like to watch the sunrise over the desert. After breakfast, return to Merzouga, where your driver awaits.
